Explanation of Major Changes in Significant Yearly Changes

Available for Sale

- Net cash flow generated from operating activities increased by RMB 2,103,197,639.61, 221.58% year-on-year, due to the decrease in cash paid for purchase of property, plant and equipment.
- The net cash flow generated from investing activities is -1,817,870,852.71, a decrease of 61.56% year-on-year, due to the decrease in cash paid for the purchase of intangible assets, investment in subsidiaries and other long-term investments.
- Net cash flow from financing activities is RMB1,554,811,858.47, a decrease of 51.06% year-on-year, due to the decrease in cash received from bank loans.
- The net increase in cash and cash equivalents is a decrease of 75.31% compared with the previous period. The main reasons are: 1) The net cash flow generated from operating activities has increased. 2) The net cash flow generated from investing activities and financing activities has decreased. 3) Although the net cash flow generated from financing activities decreased year-on-year, but the cash received from the issuance of equity securities has decreased the decrease in financing activities. The above factors led to a decrease in cash and cash equivalents.

The difference between the amount of financial assets and liabilities reflected in the "balance sheet" shall be the difference between the amount of financial assets and liabilities.

When the difference between the amount of financial assets and liabilities is different from the difference between the amount of financial assets and liabilities, the difference shall be the difference between the amount of financial assets and liabilities.

Financial assets and liabilities shall be classified as financial assets and liabilities.

(1) Recog n i i a d de- ec g i i f f i a c i a l i e

A financial asset and financial liability are recognized when the Company becomes a party to the contract.

If a financial asset or financial liability is extinguished, it shall be de-recognized:

The interest in the contract expires or the cash flow of the financial asset;

The financial asset has been transferred and the financial liability is de-recognized if the transfer is a sale.

The Company de-recognizes a financial liability when the debt is extinguished. If the Company (debtor) and the creditor agree to replace the existing financial liability with a new financial liability, and the difference between the existing financial liability and the new financial liability is a substantial difference, the existing financial liability shall be de-recognized and the new financial liability shall be recognized.

Financial assets shall be added to the balance sheet, and de-recognized according to the above provisions.

The Company's classification of financial assets has been fully disclosed and has been designed as financial assets at fair value in the consolidated financial statements, and financial assets have been measured as follows:

- The balance of the Company's available-for-sale financial assets is recorded as cash flows;
- The classification of financial assets is based on the cash flows generated and the business model for managing the financial assets. For example, for financial assets held at fair value, the classification is based on the business model for managing the financial assets. The gain or loss of financial assets held at fair value is recorded in the consolidated financial statements. For financial assets held at fair value, the classification is based on the business model for managing the financial assets. For financial assets held at fair value, the classification is based on the business model for managing the financial assets.
